

About Test Prep

“Working with Leading & Learning will help your child gain skills and confidence—and improved scores are a result of that. It only works if your child is on board and putting in the work and they motivate them to do that.

Leading & Learning Test Prep helps students realize their best results because we understand test structure, know how to fully teach testing techniques, provide students with a guided study plan, and we have them practice (and practice and practice). This approach offers the healthiest path toward improving scores, reducing your child’s test anxiety, and for preparing them intellectually and emotionally for testing day.

Why Leading & Learning’s Test Prep?

Like everything we do, Leading and Learning carefully selects our Test Prep tutors based on their skill set, personalities, and professionalism. Knowing how to navigate standardized tests requires a profound understanding—knowing how to help students learn, feel comfortable, and confident does too! Our Test Prep tutors are skilled at both, and guide students to do their best while providing them with the reassurances and support they need.
